Helen Moore

Helen Moore was born December 3, 1908, in rural Cherokee County, Kansas. In order to receive an education, Helen and her siblings were boarded with families in town during the school week. Helen’s parents were strong supporters of education. She and all of her brothers and sisters graduated from high school. Helen continued her education after high school and received business training which led her to join the Federal Government. She continued with the government for 30 years, most of which were at the Central Intelligence Agency. She was regarded as an extremely intelligent person who was interested in local, national and international issues.

Throughout Helen’s life she loved the land and returned to her agricultural roots frequently. During their married life, Helen and Willis Moore owned farms first in Loudoun, then Frederick, and lastly Shenandoah Counties. At the time of her death on May 19, 2002, Helen was a long-time resident of Shenandoah County and the town of Strasburg.

Helen Moore highly valued education and the inherent personal benefit a quality education can offer an individual. Her legacy will now and forever be honored through the Moore Educational Trust.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT GRANT

The Moore Educational Trust Professional Grant program is designed to provide financial support for professional development and personal enrichment experiences for educators in the Shenandoah County Public Schools.

Applicants will design a program of study or experiences that will enhance their performance as educators and strengthen classroom instruction.

INSTRUCTIONAL GRANT

The Moore Educational Instructional Grant program provides educators, educational teams, departments, schools and campuses with financial support in initiating projects, learning experiences for students and learning opportunities beyond those of the regular Shenandoah County Public Schools program.

Applications and proposals by Shenandoah County Public Schools educators must indicate the objectives and evaluation criteria of the proposed program. Application packets may be found in the office of each school, the school board office, and on the Shenandoah County Public Schools website at: www.shenandoah.k12.va.us
